Vincent Duncan

Wellington artist Vincent Duncan has been painting his exuberant heavily textured oils full time since 1993. He has become without doubt one of Wellington's most successful artists. His work is in many homes, in Wellington hospital brightening up the wards and has been bought by numerous national and international visitors to the capital. His secret ingredients; joy and fun! Vincent says "My passion for art began when I was very young, it has always been a priority for me to express myself though my painting. I am a self-taught artist. By creating my own vision of what I see and experience in my city, I try to make my viewer feel happy. I describe myself as 'cheeky and intuitive', painting what I see and feel. An artist has to see the world differently. These things make my paintings humorous, symbolic and uniquely my own".
